"THE ONE THING NEEDFUL"

The following editorial in the Sunday Dallas News so well pleased a good friend of the Ardmoreite that we have been requested to reproduce it:

Loves rules the court, the camp, the grove,
And men below and saints above;
And Love is Heaven, and Heaven is Love.

—Sir Walter Scott.

Men seek through the "wisdom of this world" to ameliorate the condition of mankind. They found great schools of learning, they establish asylums and hospitals, they donate great sums of money for the relief of the poor, they bequeath their earthly all to the work of alleviating suffering, they build and equip institutions for scientific investigation—they do all these things because of love for humanity. But they neglect in great measure to give their time, effort and money to the inculcation in the minds and hearts of others of the very love which prompts them to do these things. This is "the one thing needful"—the love of man for his brother. If love for each other were universal in the hearts of mankind, the major portion of the work now done for the sick, sinning and suffering would not be necessary, for the conditions demanding it would not exist. If all men were willing to bear each other's burdens there would soon be no burdens to bear, at any rate they would be negligible in number, and these would be lightened to an extent that would make the bearing of them a pleasure, for "love lightens labor." Our brother's burden would soon become like the little Scotch girl's big baby brother whom she was carrying about. Asked if he were not a great load for her, she replied: "No, he's not heavy; he's my brother." Our brothers and their burdens will be heavy and burdensome to us in proportion as we love them. Of such strength is Love that we lighten our own burdens by sharing those of others, and of such infinite supply is it that the more we give out, the more we have. This is not so of anything else; and its infinite supply and infinite strength should not seem strange to us, since we are told by one who knew that "God is Love."

Love is back of every pure thought, every chary word, every good deed. It includes every attribute of good. Without it there would be no sympathy, no mercy no forgiveness; no impulsion to performance of loving and heroic deeds; no tender compassion, no enduring patience. The light of life would go out, for there can be no life without love. Life could not exist where there is nothing but the blackness of hate. Love nurtures and protects and defends, and thus preserves the weak and the helpless. It is manifested by every living thing, from insects to animals, from fowls to fishes, from reptiles to men. Thus is seen its power in the continuity of life in everything that "moveth or creepeth upon the earth." It is the authority that sends angels upon their errands of mercy and the power that enables them to accomplish the things where-to they are sent. In it is all wisdom, as shown by its effects—in the promotion of happiness, in the preservation of life, in all constructiveness. On the other hand, hate is sin, folly, insanity, as shown by its effects—suffering, misery, destructiveness.

He who has a heart full of love is always ready to say, "Search me, O Lord, and know my heart; try me, and know my thoughts." No one with hate blackening his life, with envy canker-ing his heart, with jealousy consuming mentality, can ever be in a condition to invite inspection and trial. It is only he who loves who is willing to pray, "Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength, and my redeemer." As Wordsworth says—

Serene will be our days and bright,
And happy will our nature be,
When Love is an unerring light,
And joy its own security.

Every conclusion of logic, every demonstration of philosophy, every manifestation of spirit, every experience of life, every suggestion of wisdom, makes plain not only the rightness of man's love for his brother, but its necessity as well. It is the principle which underlies, overrules and permeates every phase of existence, and for this reason can not be ignored with impunity, nor looked upon as a matter about which one may exercise choice or option. It demands with no uncertain voice that it be practiced, with the knowledge to every one that to ignore it brings certain and inevitable penalties, which ultimate in destruction. Violation of the law of love brings its penalty as surely as its obedience brings its reward. There is no evasion possible. It can not be dodged nor circumvented. Everson says that every man takes care that his neighbor does not cheat him. But a day comes when he begins to care that he does not cheat his neighbor. Then all goes well. He has changed his market cart into a chariot of the sun." In other words, he has learned to love his neighbor, and when he does this his neighbor becomes a new and better neighbor; he sees his virtues instead of his faults, for Love gives "beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garments of praise for the spirit of heaviness."

"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," for "Love is the fulfilling of the law," and they who are obedient to this law shall see the King in His beauty.

KING THANKS AMERICANS

For Christmas Shoes for the Belgian Children.

One hundred thousand pairs of winter shoes have been sent to Belgium for distribution among destitute children, the expense being defrayed by the dollar Christmas fund of which Henry Clews, Broad street, New York, is treasurer. The following cable was received today from Monsieur Inglebeck, state secretary to King Albert and Queen Elizabeth:

"To Henry Clews, treasurer of the Dollar Christmas fund. The king and queen have been deeply touched by the generous work you have undertaken and the success accomplished. Their majesties offer their congratulations and ask you and your fellow workers to accept their heartfelt thanks for the brotherly aid they are rendering to our unfortunate fellow countrymen. Such marks of sympathy are truly consoling. Will you be good enough, as treasurer of the dollar Christmas fund, to express the acknowledgments of our sovereigns to all those who have been associated with you in your work of mercy for Belgian children?"

"Very truly yours,

"J. INGENBECK."

The above message was sent by mail dated December 22 and was cabled to New York by the Belgian minister in London. Mr. Clews announces that the fund now exceeds $67,000, and in view of the pressing need for winter shoes for the little ones in Belgium he will be glad to acknowledge donations for a few
